Topic: Letter of Intent for Research Collaboration

Dear Prof. Emeritus Dr. Sanchai Jaturasitha,
Multidisciplinary Research Institute (MDRI), Chiang Mai University, Thailand

Chiang Mai University (CMU) is Thailand's first provincial university, dedicated to the pursuit of academic excellence and the advancement of knowledge in both the arts and sciences. Committed to academic freedom and guided by ethical principles, CMU strives to contribute to regional and national development. Notably, CMU has achieved a ranking of No. 75 in THE University Impact Rankings 2024 and is recognized as the third-best university in Thailand.

This Letter of Intent serves to confirm the mutual understanding between the Multidisciplinary Research Institute (MDRI), Chiang Mai University, Thailand, and the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, National Chung Hsing University, Taiwan, regarding collaborative research initiatives. The intended collaboration will encompass the following areas:

- 1) Advancement of research in Functional Food Development
- 2) Exchange of researchers and staff to foster academic and professional growth

On behalf of the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, National Chung Hsing University, Taiwan, we affirm our commitment to fostering joint research and development efforts as co-partners in the aforementioned areas and other related topics that contribute to national research collaboration. This partnership aims to enhance our cooperation, reinforce academic networks, and support sustainable research initiatives for mutual benefit.

We look forward to a fruitful and enduring collaboration.

Yours Sincerely,

Prof. Dr. Chih-Feng Chen
Dean, College of Agriculture and Natural Resources,
National Chung Hsing University (NCHU), Taiwan
